CUT IN POSTAL RATES OPPOSED

Thorough Investigation Now Sought by Department

Author of Bill Insists It Will Show a Profit

Press is Highly Pleased by Head of Department

(BY A. P. MURPHY WIRE.)
WASHINGTON, June 21.—Support of the movement in Congress for reduction of second-class postal rates will not receive official endorsement of the Postoffice Department. It was said at the department today, until a thorough investigation has been completed, and the department is assured that such proposed reductions will not impose additional burdens.

Postmaster-Gen. Work conferred during the day with Representative Stearnson, Republican, Minnesota, chairman of the House Postoffice Committee, and Representative Kelly, Republican, Pennsylvania, concerning postal rates and parcel post matters. Mr. Kelly, author of the bill to reduce second-class mail rates, urged support of his measure "in the interest of the press of the country" and was assured by the Postmaster-General that it was in the interest of the country to have the press in entire sympathy with the publishers of the country to get reduced rates and was anxious to afford every relief possible.

MIGHT SHOW PROFIT.
Adoption of the rates proposed in his bill, Mr. Kelly said, would enable the department to reduce existing deficits and show a profit. The department's established system and scientific methods, he said, do not enable it to compete successfully with private companies in the handling of bulk mail matter.

Representative Stearnson said the administration should increase parcel post rates at the earliest possible moment in an effort to wipe out the deficit which each year from the present low rate level. He also told the Postmaster-General he was convinced the second-class mail rates in the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth zones were much too high.

PRESS IS PLEASED.
The Postoffice Department is not ungrateful of the great service performed by the press of the nation. Postmaster-Gen. Work said, "and I feel the department is maintained in the interest of the public the public should be considered in all matters affecting legislation."

"If second-class postal rates can be reduced with benefits alike to the publisher and the consumer of the government, then I am in entire accord with any movement that will bring about this result. Concluding arguments have been presented to me. When all the facts have been digested and analyzed, the department will present its records to Congress and be guided by whatever action that body takes."

FAVORABLE CONDITION FOR CROP HARVESTS

WEATHER BUREAU'S WEEKLY REVIEW OPTIMISTIC IN FORECAST

(BY A. P. MURPHY WIRE.)
WASHINGTON, June 21.—Generally favorable conditions for the harvesting of grain and hay and for the cultivation of the crops, except in some Northeastern and North Central States were recorded today by the Weather Bureau in its weekly weather and crop review for the week ending Tuesday. The winter wheat belt had unusually high temperatures, the review said, the result being that the crop ripened rapidly. The weather was too hot in Kansas, and reports reached the bureau that the grain in central and northern counties was ripening prematurely and shriveling. Harvest was in progress at the close of the week northward to Maryland, Central Indiana, Central Missouri and in the eastern half of Kansas.

Spring wheat continued to make satisfactory progress in all sections of the belt under favorable weather conditions. Moisture was sufficient to cause further improvement in Southeastern South Dakota. The crop was described as in excellent condition in North Dakota, and looking well in Montana.

Corn made good growth in most sections during the week.

WASHINGTON, junio 21.—El Senador La Follette, de Wisconsin, ha notificado al Senado que pronto presentará una resolución por la que propone una enmienda que restrinja el poder de la Suprema Corte de oponer veto a los actos del Congreso. Trata de hacer de esto una cuestión política.

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) junio 21. Entre la media noche de hoy y la madrugada del jueves, tiempo en que la cresta de la creciente superior llegará al límite del Condado de Starr, se espera que llegue a su período crítico la cresta del río Rio Bravo inferior, que ya ha inundado 16,000 acres en los condados de Starr, Hidalgo y Cameron; ha aislado a cerca de 1,000 mexicanos en las pequeñas poblaciones de la frontera; y ha cubierto los campos de cultivo al oeste de Mercedes.

La creciente superior, resultado de una manga de agua el sábado, es notable en la historia del río, no sólo porque ha sobrepasado a todas las previas crecientes, sino también por su corriente lenta y un volumen enorme. De un caudal de agua normal de 200 a 300 yardas de ancho y de 18 pulgadas de profundidad, el río Bravo se ha vuelto de un ancho de tres cuartos de milla a una milla, y de una profundidad de cincuenta pies de la cresta de la creciente. El volumen de agua es tan grande, que en Laredo, Texas, con su sistema de alcantarillado de cincuenta y dos pies de profundidad a las once de la mañana de ayer, el río tenía todavía cincuenta pies de fondo anoche a las 6 p.m.

The latter is marshaling its forces under the name of the Nonpartisan League, and the league is the only one of its kind in the United States.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Central America Overlooked; Offers Great Opportunity to Business Builders

This is the third of a series of articles on trade conditions in Latin America; their relation to this country, and especially to the Pacific Coast. The author has spent many years in Central and South America, and has made an intimate study of the people, their requirements and their reactions. He is a former editor of the Panama Morning Journal, the Panama Star and Herald, and has visited the southernmost parts of the great South American domain as a special correspondent and investigator.

BY JOHN HALL

Latin-American trade and the people of that quarter of the world, as related to the people of the United States, offer an enticing field to the investigator having the interests of all concerned as a motive for his work. There is the statistical phase, which will prove of greatest interest to our business men. This angle, I believe, should be proceeding further, he is before the readers of these articles.

Latin-America, from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn, from the standpoint of language, is a homogeneous unit. Racially, the native Indian, the West Indian negro (on the Atlantic side) and the Spaniard predominate. On the Pacific side the negro is far outnumbered by the whites and native Indians. From the Rio Grande to the Cape the official language (excepting Brazil, where Portuguese is spoken) is Spanish. A glance at the map of Europe will bring home the significance of this. And, from the standpoint of trade, the average exporter will realize the importance of the facts I am trying to convey.

OF ONE TONGUE

In the matter of language, the Western Hemisphere presents to the world the two largest groups of humans each speaking its own language. There being so many dialects in China, it is doubtful if one-fourth of its people speak the same language as the others. Of all the European states, Germany alone has a one-language population approximating Latin American. Brazil, with its 30,000,000 population and Portuguese language, really is a Spanish-speaking country. Practically all Portuguese-speaking people speak Spanish, the two languages being closely related and springing from the same mother tongue, Latin.

An population figures are of the greatest importance to the prospective exporter and importer, let it be known that the twenty-one Latin-American States south of the Rio Grande offer a field rich in promise. How many American business men have gone to the trouble to learn that Latin-America has a population approximately 20,000,000 less than the continental United States, practically all of them speaking one language and having the same needs and wants? At this writing there are some 30,000,000 people in Latin America. And between the Rio Grande and the Panama Canal, almost half by rail through Mexico, there are 21,000,000.

OPPORTUNITY OVERLOOKED

The five States from Mexico to the Panama Canal, known as Central America, for some unexplainable reason, have been almost entirely overlooked by American business men. They have been skipped; and our commercial representatives have invaded South America. The result of this oversight is that the continent of South America, largely through trading with us, has been spotted with large seaports and rich cities, while Central America, right under our noses, and almost impinging us to trade in that quarter, contains some of the most undeveloped and backward States in Latin America. Easily accessible, with half the travel and freight costs, these States have been neglected for the more distant and difficult field. Then there is the matter of friendship. These little States regard the United States as a big brother, and look to us for practically all the foreign trade they enjoy. They have been sorely stricken by the war and its aftermath of financial depression. Each of these five States, excepting Honduras, has railroad communication to the various capitals in the interior. In Honduras a fine highway leads from the Pacific to Tegucigalpa; on the Atlantic all merchandise is carried inland on the backs of mules.

Recent efforts to form Central America into one state indicate the trend of feeling that quarter. The people are in favor of the union; but politics has thwarted their wish, for the present. The commercial traveler will find his way from one state to another without encountering obstacles worth mentioning.

European salesmen are traveling back and forth across Central America, gathering business overtures by American exporters. These hustlers come from across the sea and find few difficulties in their way. They enjoy a laugh at the expense of the American drummer they meet, usually slipping in a word about his bad Spanish. They meet at the same hotel and the American is usually ready with a lot of conversation poking fun at the people of the country and boasting of the respect he has and they have for him. The exceedingly rare American drummer who does not indulge in this pastime, the man who knows his prospect, the new American drummer invariably falls into this pitfall. Then he wonders why the Latin-Americans give him the cold shoulder when he calls upon them. The European salesman has preceded him, and has not neglected to tell all about his comical conception of the native's funny ways.

TIME TO WAKE UP

Our loss of Central American trade is incalculable. The people prefer to do business with us. Our men are better salesmen than the average European; and the people of Central America are more intelligent than the average European. We send the right kind of men to this field the battle will be short and decisive. Sending a man to Central America is not a matter of obstacles than sending one from New York to our Pacific Coast. From Los Angeles all of Central America is well served by steamer. This service is far superior to that from New Orleans, or any other point on the Atlantic. Pacific Coast traders need to overlook this enormous advantage.

Guatemala, Nicaragua, Salvador, Honduras and Costa Rica, each one having direct communication with the interior, beckon to the Los Angeles shipper. They are our neighbors and they have unfulfilled needs which we can meet as easily as we can serve the people of our own country four or five States removed from our coast. Why have we not done so, and allowed their trade to go to Europe is a mysterious phase of our relations with Latin America. The people living there cannot understand. Before the war our domestic market, expanded by the war, was the only one that could give them. These five small states at our door contain some magnificent territory, richly dotted with plantations; but the greater part lies virgin. Waiting the time when the American business man shall see and appreciate.

THE COUNTRY OVER

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

FORT WORTH (Tex.) June 21.—The business done by the department stores here in the month of June will be the biggest sales-month in the last three years. Money for buying purposes is appearing from every direction. Of course, much of this is coming from the farming districts, where grain is being harvested and sold. Cotton is as good as sold at the retail trade. Department stores are putting on extra salesmen, something unheard of at this time of year. The big wool-clips offered at Brady were sold at prices which surpassed all expectations. Continued good weather has strengthened the tomato and fruit markets, which are moving in carload lots to the North and East.

BOSTON (Mass.) June 21.—Production in most of the lines of New England is steadily improving and has arrived at nearly normal levels, in many factories. Both production and consumption are large and while the margin of profits is small, the trend of all industries is in the right direction.

The long-drawn-out textile strike is approaching a settlement with the employees apparently on the losing end. Several Rhode Island mills have reopened and the big New Hampshire mills are keeping their gates open to workers who desire to return.

An interesting feature of the textile situation is that both cotton and woolen goods are lagging behind the prices of raw cotton and wool products.

Revival of Trade Is on a Permanent Basis; Day in Review at Home and Abroad

The business situation is enjoying a sustained recovery is the consensus of the nation's best financial opinion. Midmonth trade reviews agree that the country is going ahead notwithstanding the coal strike and the setbacks experienced in some sections from inclement weather conditions. Perhaps the best proof of the recovery is the fact that ten basic commodities have risen more than 14 per cent from the low point of last summer and are now quoted at virtually the highest level touched since the recovery began.

The most potent factor in the revival of trade has been the exhaustion of stocks, the wearing out of things in use, forcing consumers to come into the markets to supply their own wants and to tell what they have ordered in order to provide the means of purchase. This pressure of reciprocal wants has been gradually bringing the branches of industry to the readjustments that have to be made.

The state of ease that has developed in the money market, as evidenced by the liquidation of the Federal Reserve banks, the ready absorption of investment securities and the rise of the bond and stock markets is a condition favorable to the expansion. Call money has fallen to the lowest level since the war and the whole money market is in a most comfortable position.

Of course, call money has become cheap partly because nobody wants it, and partly because there is still a good supply of idle working capital. John Moody said recently that the indications are that the money market will begin to harden in the autumn. Business activity is gradually re-employing idle capital and unless political unrest interferes, the trend of interest rates thereafter should be slightly upward, according to Mr. Moody.

The shortage of dwelling houses which has forced great activity in house building all over the country, has been perhaps the leading influence for industrial revival. It has been an imperative situation for the country is very much behind in housing accommodations. The active response with which these bonds were offered at the "Philadelphia plan" and are secured by approximately $36,800,000 worth of new equipment. The offering syndicate includes J. P. Morgan & Co., the National City Company, the First National Bank of New York, the Guaranty Trust Company and Harris, Forbes & Co.

EQUIPMENT ISSUE

The market for high-class railroad securities was given a test yesterday by the offering of $27,444,000 New York Central 5 per cent equipment trust certificates. The active response with which these bonds were offered at the "Philadelphia plan" and are secured by approximately $36,800,000 worth of new equipment. The offering syndicate includes J. P. Morgan & Co., the National City Company, the First National Bank of New York, the Guaranty Trust Company and Harris, Forbes & Co.

BANK MERGER

Stockholders in the First National Bank of San Francisco are said to be attempting to force their president, Rudolph Spreckels, to permit the proposed merger with the Crocker National Bank. Early this week a special stockholders' committee, said to represent 14,000 of the 30,000 shares of the bank's stock, requested a conference with Mr. Spreckels to discuss the reopening of negotiations with the Crocker bank officials.

It is expected that at this conference a request will be made by the discontented stockholders for an effort to secure from the Crocker bank information as to the terms on which a merger might be effected. President Spreckels recently indicated his belief that such a merger would not be for the best interests of the institution which he heads.

TICKER TICKS

President Harding holds there is no possible connection between Mexican debt settlement and recognition of Mexico.

Vice-president Galloway of the Baltimore and Ohio says there is little possibility of a big railroad strike, the men realizing they cannot get very far by a walkout right now.

Chairman Hooper of the Labor Board predicts disaster and unfortunate results for the rail unions should the threatened without materialize.

Chairman Wilkinson of Crucible steel company is running from 60 to 80 per cent capacity, with business this month showing an increase over May, and progress steady and uniform.

There is a dearth of workers in Detroit; permanent, well-paying jobs for 40 men are open and no takers, according to the city public welfare department.

Ford Motor Company May production of cars and trucks at all plants was 134,762 vehicles, a new high monthly record.

Average price of twenty industrial, 93.51, up 1.58; twenty rails, 23.85, up .97.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

NEW YORK, June 21.—Trading on the stock exchange today continued to be influenced if not altogether governed by the extraordinary movements of several speculative favorites. Chief among these were Mexican Petroleum and Studebaker, both scoring new high records for the year on very large transactions. Mexican Petroleum, after a series of bewildering advances and reactions, established a maximum of 175 from which it made an abrupt descent of eight points and rallied to 175, a net gain of 4 1/2 points or a total of slightly over 30 points so far this week.

Studebaker's course within limited bounds was even more confusing, making a perpendicular decline of about five points in the final hour when the market was most unsettled and closing at a loss of 2 1/2 points, as against its early gain of almost that much.

Other foreign and domestic oils, notably General Asphalt, Pan-American Petroleum, California Petroleum and Houston Oil were better by 2 to 4 points but these were slightly affected by the reactionary movements of their leader.

In the irregular advance of the early and intermediate periods, several of the independent steel, equipment and motor accessories were lifted to new high levels for the current movement. Minor ranges, sugars, textiles, leathers and metals rose one to three points but stood in the closing reaction.

Altogether the market's course indicated that its recent advance was mainly traceable to the existence of a short interest of large proportions and confirmed the opinion of impartial observers that substantial public participation was lacking.

Call money opened at 3 1/2 to 4 per cent, repeating the recent minimum quotation for such accommodations, this being the lowest in almost five years.

The 3 per cent rate of the last half hour seemed to be prompted by tomorrow's withdrawal from local reserve banks of $14,000,000 to meet treasury payments.

Part of yesterday's brisk rally in British and other allied exchanges was lost on renewed selling of bills from London and Paris. Starting eased over one cent, French, Italian and Belgian bills fell 4 to 10 points and German marks reacted moderately. On the other hand Dutch and Scandinavian quotations made up some of their recent severe depreciation and a better tone was shown by Polish, Austrian and Czechoslovakian rates.

Austin Brothers Association

First Closed Mortgage 7% Sinking Fund Bonds

$250,000

New Issue

Due February 1, 1932. Callable as a whole or in part by lot upon 60 days' prior notice by publication, on August 1, 1932, at 100 and interest, and thereafter at a premium of one-half of 1% for each year or fraction thereof of the unexpired term of the bonds. $1000, $500 and $100 coupon bonds. Principal and semi-annual interest (August 1 and February 1) payable at the office of the Trustee, Mercantile Trust Company, San Francisco, California. The Company agrees to pay the 3% normal Federal Income Tax.

Price 98 and Interest—To Yield Over 7.25%

These bonds will constitute, in the opinion of counsel, a first closed mortgage on more than 31,500 acres of land in Utah, Wyoming, Idaho and Nevada, conservatively appraised at over twice the bonded debt.

They will be a direct obligation, and the only mortgaged indebtedness of Austin Brothers Association, whose total assets, after giving effect to land valuations, by our appraisers, and to the current financing, are in excess of $1,100,000, or $4400 for each $1000 bond. A sinking fund is provided which will retire 50% of the bonds prior to maturity.

Business Beginning over 34 years ago with a single band of sheep, Austin Brothers Association has increased its operations until it now owns approximately 31,500 acres of land, 34,000 head of sheep and 1000 head of cattle.

The company has the benefit of management by thoroughly competent and experienced men, who have been associated for a long period and whose ability has built the business to its present proportions. These men are also stockholders of the Company.

On account of the unusually high quality maintained, the Company's live stock has become widely and favorably known and commands particularly favorable prices.

The Land The land holdings of Austin Brothers Association are in Utah County, Utah; Carbon and Blaine Counties, Idaho; Uinta County, Wyoming, and Elko County, Nevada. About 600 acres of this land are situated near Salt Lake City, and are suitable for subdivision and sale in small parcels for intensive farming, while over 9000 acres are ranches comprising irrigated bottom lands, producing all the hay and alfalfa for the ranching operations.

Earnings Average annual net earnings applicable to bond interest for the 10-year period ended September 30, 1931, with a much smaller capital than at present, and including heavy losses in the years 1920 and 1921, due to shrinkage in values of live stock and wool inventories, were $40,883.98, or 13.4 times annual interest charges on these bonds. These figures represent actual earnings from operations and do not include appreciation in values of land and live stock or other assets. Due to the present increase in capital investment and to other factors, net earnings in normal years hereafter should amount to approximately $75,000, or more than 4 1/2 times bond interest.

Former Faces Bigamy Charge; Accused as Swindler and Bogus Check Passer

Donald Allister Stewart, asserted ex-minister and swindler, was being held incommunicado in the Los Angeles jail yesterday, a nation-wide check on his career and four wives, an indictment for bigamy in New York.

Officials said that he is a professional swindler and check passer.

Stewart, 40, was arrested at his home in New York, N. Y., by police of that city, and taken to the city hall, where he was held incommunicado.

BUILDS ON ELEVENTH AND HOPE

Plans for Costly Modern Structure Are Begun by Goetz and Hanson

Plans for the erection of a modern one-story building on the property recently acquired by Herman Goetz at the southeast corner of Eleventh and Hope streets have been prepared by Ralph E. Hanson.

The project will represent a total investment of approximately $100,000. The building will cover the entire site, which has a frontage of 800 feet on Hope street, and 137 feet on Eleventh.

The building, as designed, will contain twenty stores, twelve of which will face on the Hope street frontage. It will contain a total area of more than 47,000 feet.

Nearly half of the building has already been leased for a long term of years to the United Parcel Service Company of Oakland and Seattle, which will establish a branch here.

The building is being built by Herman Goetz and Ralph E. Hanson. The building is being built by Herman Goetz and Ralph E. Hanson.

ASK YOUR POSTMAN... HE KNOWS

Carriers Plan Picnic on Fourth of July to Help Swell Benefit Fund

Ask your postman. He knows all about the Fourth of July letter carriers' picnic to be held in Eagle Rock Park.

For the first time in ten years the 700 members of the Letter Carriers' Association are asking the public to help them.

Through a committee of seven letter carriers a huge picnic has been planned. Everybody is invited and tickets at 50 cents each can be obtained from the postman at your own front door.

The funds collected from ticket sales will be used by the letter carriers to reimburse their sick and death benefit fund, and to equip the letter carriers' band, which was formed two months ago.

The band, which includes some of the best-known musicians in the city, will appear at the picnic and furnish the music and will make their first official appearance at the California's Pageant of Progress, opening August 26.

According to the letter carriers' picnic committee, composed of Alfred Thibault, Joseph C. Fallon, Tom J. Piggott, J. S. Winchester, E. A. Murray, L. L. Pullman and William Riley, the affair will be a real old-fashioned Fourth of July picnic.

The program will include a huge barbecue, good music, dancing, speeches, races, men, women and children, and a general frolic for all.

Every letter carrier in the city will be supplied with tickets. The tickets will cost 50 cents each, but the letter carriers are not allowed to make solicitations as they trudge from house to house delivering letters.

Therefore the committee yesterday adopted the slogan: "Ask your postman—he knows."

SPECIAL ELECTION URGED

Early Action on Sewer Bond Issue Advised After County Proposes Large Loan

The city may call a special election before August 29 to vote on a proposed bond issue of $12,500,000 for a new outfall sewer and treatment plants as a result of information which reached the City Hall yesterday that the Board of Supervisors is planning to submit a bond issue of at least $20,000,000 to the voters at the State-county primaries on August 29 for the new Hall of Justice.

The first public mass meeting in behalf of the sewer bonds will be held in the Council chamber at the City Hall at 7:30 p.m. July 10. O. M. Vickey, a member of the City Planning Commission and former president of the Los Angeles Realty Board, will preside. He is chairman of a Citizens' Committee which is conducting an educational campaign to bring home to the people of Los Angeles the necessity for immediate action for providing adequate sewage disposal facilities for the city.

TWO ACCUSED DEFEND HONOR

Admit Signatures on Hotel Registers

Deny Conduct Was in Any Way Unseemly

Assert Relations Only Client and Lawyer

The eternal triangle seemingly does not run true to form in the Baker divorce case, now on trial before Judge Wellborn.

Arthur Baker, an attorney, and Mrs. Lillian Myers, attractive divorcee, instead of denying their signatures on hotel and apartment-house registers, admit that they so signed them and occupied adjoining rooms.

But they deny absolutely, that their conduct was in any way unseemly. Both are defending their honor from the charge of misconduct set up in the divorce complaint of Mrs. Helen Baker, who names Mrs. Myers as co-respondent.

Mrs. Myers retained Mr. Baker as her attorney in her divorce suit about a year ago. It was during the pendency of this action that

PLANS OF WONDER HOMES TO BE PRINTED SUNDAY

"Times" to Show How Grand Prizes Will Appear When Turned Over to Winners

Plans for the $16,500 Wilshire Crest home and the $8000 Spanish bungalow which is to be erected in West Hollywood tract in The Times' famous $70,000 prize campaign will be shown for the first time in Sunday's Times. Thousands of persons who are watching and all of the many candidates who are entering the campaign are eagerly waiting to see what the wonder homes will look like, and the architects have promised that the designs will be completed this week.

Those who have been privileged to glimpse the plans in the making, are moved to all the superlatives at their command in describing these two beautiful homes that will soon shelter the happy families of the two most successful candidates. Brick and mortar are lost to sight. Instead there comes to mind the romantic history of California, "way back in the days when the early Spanish settlers bulid in the image of their native land."

While the Wilshire Crest home follows the architectural lines of the domestic Latin type, it is as one admirably suited to the needs of Southern California, which so nearly duplicates the atmosphere of the Mediterranean from whence it has come to our southern shores. It was old Spain that supplied the inspiration for the $1600 bungalow which is destined to become one of the show places of Los Angeles, and which in its beautiful setting at the foot of the rolling Hollywood hills, will forever be a delight to the fortunate persons who are sheltered by its walls.

West Hollywood tract is an situated as to be peculiarly well adapted to this type of architecture, and the $8000 bungalow in its progress, will be the objective of thousands of persons who are fortunate enough to visit Los Angeles during the coming weeks of the campaign. The accessibility of West Hollywood tract, which is served by the rapid service of the red car line, is an advantage that cannot be overlooked.

WORK TO BEGIN SOON As soon as the architects complete their work, the contractors will start to build. Even they are eager to commence their work for the prize homes offered by The Times mean more than the building of two average houses. The idea of building these homes—so radically different in style—has been received as a tribute, or monument, to ambition—a fitting reward for the persons who will win them, and when completed they will reflect the ideals of those who told in their creation.

The prospect of winning this $16,500 home in Wilshire Crest, or the $8000 bungalow in West Hollywood tract, has imbued candidates in all sections of the Times' territory with keen enthusiasm. The plan of prize distribution.

MORTGAGE BURNED AT CEREMONY

Marks Clearing of Debt on Maternity Cottage; Plans Announced

In celebration of the clearing of the Maternity Cottage debt, a mortgage for $8000 was ceremoniously burned at a meeting of the Women's Alliance Maternity Cottage Association last night at the Bas Arm. The mortgage represented security for a note signed by officers of the organization three years ago. It was paid off in five installments, the funds having been raised by popular subscription.

The cottage, built at a cost of $30,000, is located at 117 South Utah street. Its present capacity is nineteen beds. A mortgage store is operated in connection with the cottage to aid in meeting expenses. The announcement that $1600 had been donated by Mrs. Cordelia Kirkland as a nucleus for an endowment fund was made last night by Mrs. William Baughman, president of the association, after touching a match to the mortgage. Plans for adding a wing to the cottage are being made by the Gamma Gamma Gamma Society, which already has raised more than $8000 by staging benefits for the Maternity Cottage, Mrs. Baughman stated.

"A Mile o' Pines" for the cottage has been raised by the Gen. Richard Gridley Chapter of the D.A.R. Mrs. Baughman announced that the $1600 had been turned over to the treasurer of the association.

FOR ANNUAL MEETING The Central-Alumni Association will hold its annual June meeting Saturday at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the old Los Angeles High School, 461 North Hill street. JURORS VISIT DEATH GLEN

Madalynne Masters Emotion at Murder Scene

Judge and Jurymen Engage in Verbal Tilt

Hotel Where Burch Stopped Also Visited

The jury in the case of Mrs. Madalynne C. Obenshain, charged with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy last August, made "personal" conducted tours yesterday to the scene of the killing in Beverly Glen and to the Russell Hotel, where Arthur C. Burch, Madalynne's defendant, is said to have stopped.

Unlike the day in Mrs. Obenshain's previous trial when she visited the glen and clumped to the ground and cried, she bore up bravely yesterday, except for a brief moment when her lips trembled and she seemed to weaken. And unlike, too, that other day when a cold wind swept down the canyon and forced her to seek protection from the blasts she was forced to retreat yesterday before the relentless sun that scorched the hills about the glen.

Instead of the defendant being the center of interest, the jury seemed to attract attention yesterday. Scarcely a member failed to ask some question and once or twice the intensity of two of the men caused a heated discussion between counsel.

A tilt between Judge Shenk and Jurymen Rhoades took place back of the Kennedy cottage at the glen. Mr. Rhoades had been making several pointed queries concerning the destination of certain trails.

"It's settled in my mind where these trails lead," Mr. Rhoades stated with emphasis.

The court admonished him that he was not to draw conclusions concerning evidence until the end of the case.

"I'm not drawing conclusions. I can see for myself these paths go," the juror replied.

"But you must keep your observations to yourself and not tell them to the other jurors," Mr. Rhoades, Judge Shenk stated.

The reply of the jurymen was lost in the murmur of several women jurors.

While the jury was examining the scene where Burch is said to have killed Madalynne, stood with bowed head on the steps looking at the spot on the boards where Belton's life was spilled. Her lips twitched and her face became pale, she mastered her emotions, however, and walked up the steps leaning on the arm of Deputy Sheriff Fannie L. Lowe.

A new trail leading in front of the cabin was introduced during a tilt between Mr. Rush on one side and Mr. Kays and Frank Stoddard, former County Surveyor, on the other. Mr. Rush declared that, contrary to Stoddard's statement, a trail did exist in front of the house on the night of the murder. His declaration was substantiated by the associate, William B. Seifert.

Southland to Share Good Times, Says Bachrach

Earlier Date is Urged for Oakland Convention

More Active Co-operation is Plea to Club

Because the convention at Oakland of the Retail Clothiers' Association of California, August 27-29, would prevent attendance of California delegates at the national convention in Atlantic City in September a committee was appointed yesterday at a meeting of the Men's Apparel Club at the Alexandria, to confer with President Berger of the State Clothiers' Association for an earlier date for the Oakland convention.

It was also pointed out that the August convention would conflict with the industrial exposition to be held in Los Angeles starting August 24. The committee appointed yesterday to confer with Mr. Berger consisted of fifteen Southern California members of the Retail Clothiers' Association of California. The consensus of opinion, voiced at the meeting yesterday, will be wired to Mr. Berger by C. L. Fidler, acting secretary of the California Men's Apparel Club, Southern Division.

Among the speakers yesterday was William Bachrach, who was first president of the M.A.C. organization; G. E. Nagel, H. W. French, Harry Furze, Lawrence Lewin, and other representative clothiers and salesmen. Mr. Bachrach said that the letters M.A.C. should stand for "more active co-operation" among clothiers, salesmen, manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers.

"The first law of civilization is not self-preservation, but contribution to social welfare," said Mr. Bachrach. "Slowly, but surely, society's ideal is changing from the thought of getting to the idea of giving to the community from service. It is our right and duty to elevate the position of the salesman to the dignity of a profession, to believe in ourselves and support that faith with deeds, to consider our work first from the standpoint of service to the customer and lastly in our dealing with merchants."

Mr. Bachrach, who is chairman of the board of directors of the M.A.C., said that although business has been comparatively good recently, the country is on the eve of a depression and that the Southland will have a big share in the coming prosperity. Pleading for a greater spirit of co-operation between the clothiers and the salesman through whom the former purchase their goods, Mr. Bachrach pointed to the city's phenomenal growth as an example of what may be accomplished by industry and co-operative efforts.

A. Lewin, of the Brownstein-Louis Company said there is a need for all workers, in various ways, to have "best" done, to be "best" and to "face hard work with a smile."

"Men will have to begin to catch earlier trains and to get up six full days a week," said Mr. Lewin. "Also, dealers need not expect the best time of the year to devote three days a week to golf and only three days to business."

A musical program was furnished by the orchestra from Sid Grauman's Theater.

PASADENA, June 21.—Retail shoe dealers to the number of 500 attended the first open-air banquet of the season at the Maryland tonight and listened to old jokes and new from the lips of Rev. Leslie E. Learned and James W. Foley, Harold Proctor sang. The California Retail Shoe Dealers Association closes its three-day convention here tomorrow with an election in which a Southern California candidate is expected to carry off the principal honors, as the present officers are mainly from San Francisco and vicinity. Some important announcements are expected, including an analysis of shoe profits which is declared will absolve shoe retailers from profiteering charges.

Today's session was taken up with round-table discussions of important problems of shoe stores. Declaration of several speakers that no drop in shoe prices could be expected for some time to come was the only development of interest.

HOLD STEWART AS BIGAMIST

Indicted in New York, Say Authorities

Lurid Career Charged to ex-Minister

Has Four Wives, According to Police

partment of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation at Wilmington, Del. The marriage was said to have been performed in that city by Rev. Richard W. Trappell of the Episcopal church. Later Miss James, according to the Pinkerton report, was married in Chicago, posing as his sister-in-law, and using the name of Mrs. Mary Mitchell. He is said to have deserted her in Newark, N. J.

Stewart's next marriage, the report states, was with Mrs. Osbaldeston in New York, March 1920. Soon after the marriage the ex-reformer, the report continues, met Miss Bertha Ellen Granville in Indianapolis. Ind. and started a courtship which resulted in their marriage Feb. 3, 1921. The Clayton Hotel at that city. In this case the ceremony was performed by Rev. George Savary of the First Congregational Church. It was stated, Stewart at the time gave the name of Donald Allister Duncan Stewart. He became engaged in selling stock for the Border Cities Homes Construction Corporation in Detroit while his last asserted wife remained in Indianapolis. During that time he is said to have cashed a check for $1250 indorsed by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Agnes L. Granville, and to have sold an automobile which he had borrowed from her. He is asserted to have disappeared July 21 of that year. It later developed, according to the detectives, that he had defrauded Bruce L. Granville, his brother-in-law, of $1250 in a business transaction.

While residing in Chicago with Stewart, Mrs. Osbaldeston is said to have found that the ex-reformer was associating with a former wife who called herself Mrs. Mitchell and later, on her complaint, an indictment charging bigamy was returned against him in New York City. It is asserted, however, that this fact, detectives state, and though Stewart repeatedly deserted her after spending a considerable amount of money, she had saved, Mrs. Osbaldeston is said to have forgiven him and again lived with him without notifying the authorities that he had returned to her.

POSED AS SISTER

In June, 1931, Stewart is said to have met and courted Miss Gertrude Van Lipik, a teacher of art in the Detroit public schools to whom he was not married, however. From her relatives he is asserted to have obtained large sums of money through fraud. According to the detectives' report, Orrie Clutter, cousin of Miss Van Lipik, indorsed two checks for Stewart totaling $350. A third check amounting to $350, the ex-minister is asserted to have obtained from G. Van Lipik, an uncle of the girl. Berne Carides of 1513 Dexter Boulevard, Detroit, is asserted to have been deceived by Stewart in the same manner of $300, the detectives charge.

Following his asserted entanglements Stewart is said to have returned again to Mrs. Osbaldeston, who posed as his sister. It is asserted Mrs. Osbaldeston aided in contracting a marriage with Miss Norma Ehrenseller, Sept. 24, 1921, at which ceremony he used the name of Donald Allen McGregor. From Miss Ehrenseller he is said to have obtained $1500, and from her parents $1000. When later questioned by Pinkerton detectives Mrs. Osbaldeston is quoted as saying that she was under the influence of drugs at the time of the marriage.

Stewart, according to the Pinkerton reports, posed pupils at Patterson, N. J., Sanderson, Tex., Douglas, Ariz., and in Chico, Cal., where he is said to have been known as a reformer of red-light districts.

HUNTED FOR TWO YEARS

(BY A. P. DAY WIRE.)

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) June 21. The capture of Donald D. Stewart near Sierra Madre Cal. ends a search conducted since July, 1921, after it was charged by the police that Stewart had defrauded the Astoria Savings & Trust Company of Indianapolis of $1250 and deserted Bertha Ellen Granville of this city whom he married here February, 1921. According to authorities, he also defrauded Bruce Granville, a brother of his Indianapolis wife, of $1250 and sold a car belonging to another brother.

Members of a private detective agency said Stewart's real name was Robert Alan McLaren Browne. He is said to have been ordained a Presbyterian minister in New York City in 1908, but his commission was revoked in 1918, following his connection with the suicide of Mrs. Maude Hendrix, wife of an engineer on the Southern Pacific Railroad at Stockton, Cal. He is also said to have a divorced wife and three children living at Dunsmuir Lake, N. J., where he held his first church assignment.

Stewart was indicted on charges of bigamy and leaving fraudulent checks in Indianapolis in December, 1921, and authorities of the detective agency assert he will be brought here for trial.

LOCAL NEWS
Nowadays they don't call it a high school unless it costs something over $400,000. If it comes higher than that it is a real high school.

SWEETENING THE WORLD
The United States is going to export more refined sugar this year than ever before in history. This is in spite of the fact that our general exports indicate a slump, but when it comes to refining sugar we spread our sweetness over a wonderful territory. Likewise we import more raw sugar than any other country on earth.

THE GIRL AND THE GUM
Someone comments that the modern dapper does not chew gum. Of course not. There is nothing exciting about that. She is more likely to be on the trail of some flimsy bootlegger. They say that there is as much gum chewed as ever, but it must be that the old-timers who used to live on gum have taken to it. The dapper is not indulging in any notable extent.

CROWING UP
The assessed valuation of our little northern neighbor, Glendale, has increased from $12,000,000 to more than $20,000,000 and the building permits for this season are already much over $2,000,000. The city fathers are carrying an indulgent smile over the prospect of having a little money to spend. Glendale has been growing so fast that papa could hardly keep her properly dressed.

LAY OF THE HEN
Now the hens are talking of going on a strike. They will take advantage of the warm ways to loaf on the job. They say that they have not been getting their share of the gate receipts. The cold-storage folk beat down the price of eggs while they stocked up, but the price has not gone back. A year ago eggs were ten cents a dozen more than they are now. They were even higher before the war at this time of the year. At thirty cents a dozen eggs are about the cheapest refreshment that the grocer offers to the human race.

THE CREDITORS' NATION
We are increasing our accommodations to the peoples of the world. The Jugoslav government is selling some $25,000,000 of bonds in this country. Chile is negotiating a little loan of $10,000,000 in Wall Street and the Wilshire district. Argentina has just been accommodated with a bunch of American money in exchange for some perfectly good bonds. We advanced $5,000,000 to Liberia. And then a nation feels the need of money they send a memorandum to Uncle Sam and the bonds are handled in this country. Just now we are the greatest race of bondholders on the world's map.

SOME REAL ECONOMY
There are more than 55,000 fewer government employees now than there were January 1, 1931. The Harding administration promised a program of economy in the public service. They agreed that money must be saved. The pledge of thrift is being realized in a large and substantial way in California. Gov. Stephens was elected on a pledge of economy. How many politicians have been removed from the trough? How many barnacles have been pruned from their moorings? Instead of a lessening of expenditure the tax bill has been doubled. That is the difference between an honest effort and a false alarm.

LIVE OF THE INDUSTRY
The Chamber of Commerce report on new industries achieved in Los Angeles during May shows that there is no perceptible lull in the great march of progress. Likewise we are improving our standing as the most versatile of American cities. The fresh factories opened during May produce articles ranging from refrigerators to sanitary pillows and from radio outfits to dominoes. Also they make diving rods, circus tents, step ladders, rubber boots, broomsticks and silk stockings. The list includes more than 120 new concerns—ranging from one-man power to a thousand employees. This is a beehive of industry and is not all reliant upon our well-known climate.

TWO OF DISCORD
Senators Borah, Johnson and La Follette, the three muckrakers of the Senate, are now demanding the withdrawal of the United States marines from Haiti, where they have been preserving order, protecting American interests and maintaining peace. Democrats have joined with Republicans in approving the policy of the administration toward Haiti and other troubled republics. Senator Borah says that the withdrawal of the marines from Haiti would mean anarchy, revolution and much bloodshed. But a little thing like that does not interrupt the reasoning process of the stubborn trio. They have made up their minds that the United States must have nothing to do with any nation save Germany or Russia. If there are any American interests in Haiti they should get out and let the native factions fight their own battles. If this gloomy crisis had the shaping of the foreign policy of the country the United States would not have a friend among the peoples of the earth, nor would it deserve any.

STUPID SELFISHNESS

The doctrine of selfish service—the greatest good to the greatest number—seems not to have invaded the consciousness of the American Federation of Labor. At the recent labor convention at Cincinnati, amid a storm of hisses for the Chief Justice of the United States, a resolution was adopted looking toward a campaign to alter the Federal Constitution by an amendment giving Congress the power to override decisions of the Supreme Court and prohibiting the Supreme Court from declaring Federal laws to be unconstitutional.

In plain English, the American Federation of Labor proposes to tear the heart and lungs out of the Constitution of the United States; to absolutely wreck the entire foundation of our system of government in order to escape the legal consequences of a just decision—a decision which merely places upon labor unions the same legal responsibilities that rest upon other commercial entities.

At the same convention in Cincinnati a resolution was adopted condemning the President's demand for a ship subsidy bill on the ground that it was a "cunningly devised scheme to enrich certain classes of so-called American ship owners," etc.

The principal beauty of this stand on the part of the American Federation of Labor is that the ship subsidy is an absolute governmental necessity and that it is necessary because of the handicaps placed upon American shipping by the La Follette seamen's bill and other legislation passed on the demand of union labor.

The fact is that the President is not moved to ask for a ship subsidy by the needs of the "so-called American ship owners." He is moved by the very pressing consideration of national safety. Not only the commercial requirements of the nation call for the re-establishment of a merchant marine; the new conditions brought about by the World War have made a merchant marine the most essential military protection in the whole national plan of our defense.

All selfishness is stupid. And these resolutions are stupid.

Were the unions able to overturn the Constitution of the United States and place the legal rights of the unions, as well as the legal responsibilities, in the general scramble of a political contest they would be savoring that they think they would be glad.

The unions, perhaps least of all organized branches of society, could safely leave their legal rights to be determined by the fluctuating opinions of popular elections. There is a rather melancholy humor in the spectacle of the unions screaming in their eagerness to be allowed to build a Frankenstein for their own destruction.

SAVE OUR CHIMPANZEES

According to the latest testimony of Dr. Serge Voronoff, the monkey-gland specialist, it is now possible for the skilled surgeon to take a couple of frolicsome chimpanzees and, by a system of judicious carving, make a grand new jazz baby out of them.

The chimpanzee is the hairy brother of mankind. If we are of Simian descent our great-grandfathers were of this tribe. Proof of this is indicated by the fact that a chimpanzee can be taught to wear a celluloid collar and use a knife in eating appetizers.

Dr. Voronoff says that a chimpanzee so resembles man that they can hardly be told apart after they are skinned. It is in that condition that the doctor usually leaves either or both. But the point the great gland specialist is making is that the wasted forces of the human body can be safely and surely replenished from the vital parts or organs of a chimpanzee.

From his standpoint it would be possible to transplant the liver of one of these massive baboons into a human being. He goes further and indicates a limitless program of transplantation. Apparently a complete man could be assembled from various sections of a chimpanzee. He would take the trunk and noodle of one and the arms or legs of another and gradually build up a man as a mechanic would assemble a Ford.

The Russian scientist has done wonders in fusing glands—ductless or otherwise. He has transplanted them all—thyroid, pituitary, interstitial, pineal, lingual, anal, adrenal, thymus, lacrimal, vascular, lymphatic, pyloric and pancreatic—pretty near the whole works. To the hepatic and cardiac is but a step and then the doctor will be able to start a man off with a new heart and liver. He says that all this may be possible and he says that when he makes full reports of his experiments, extending over a period of three years or more, the world will be rocked with amazement. He has given brains to the sluggish-minded and has restored the fire of youth to those in their dotage. He has given strength and fortitude to the feeble and decrepit and he is building man into a hardy and active character, able to shin up any tree in the park.

At least that is what some of the advance sheets would indicate. Dr. Voronoff says that the only trouble is in rounding up enough chimpanzees to keep up with the experiments. It would be too bad if the world should run out of chimpanzees just when they are needed to replenish the appetites of our millionaires. As it stands now, a healthy and alert chimpanzee will set the doctor back $500 or more—which is as much as a surgeon could get for cutting out a set of tonsils with a pair of manicure scissors. If the doctor has to pay this unhappy price for his raw materials the operation is going to cost a whole lot by the time it reaches the pocketbook of an ennobled financier.

The problem of the immediate future may be the world shortage of chimpanzees. Dr. Voronoff admits his passionate preference for the chimpanzee. He has tried orang-outangs, ring-tailed lemurs, blue-nosed mandrills and pig-faced monkeys, but he always comes back to the chimpanzee. The gorilla might answer his purpose in some cases, but gorillas are scarce and difficult to handle. Some of the more massive male gorillas object to laying down their thyroid glands in the interests of science and the relief of humanity and have to be stunned on the head with an ax before they can be brought to reason. The chimpanzee is more tolerant and amenable. An animal that can be taught to ride a bicycle becomes quite pliant when under the hands of a white-domed scientist.

So it looks as if there should be conservation of our chimpanzees. We must take care of those we have and strive to attain other sources of supply. Save your chimpanzees. The doctor may need them at any moment.

BACK TO THE MOUNTAINS

The gold rush of early Anglo-American California days was a rush to the gold fields in the Sierra Nevada Mountains of the central portion of the State. Outside of the cities of San Francisco and Sacramento, the outfitting points for the gold hunters, the centers of population in California were in the high mountain counties of Amador, Calaveras, Eldorado, Mariposa, Nevada, Placer, Plumas, Sierra and Tuolumne and Yuba. In 1850 Eldorado county had a population of over 20,000, Calaveras nearly 17,000 and Yuba nearly 10,000. Few of the gold hunters located in the coast counties of Southern California, for in 1850 Los Angeles county contained 3530 people, San Diego 798, Santa Barbara 1185, San Luis Obispo 324.

The census of 1880, as might be expected, gave incomplete returns; however, the one taken ten years later confirmed it as far as the rush to the mines in the mountains was concerned, for Tuolumne, Nevada and Eldorado still led the coast counties—in population. In this period the declining output of the early placer, resulting in mining becoming a settled industry; the coming in of farmers as well as miners and the discovery by a few persons that good farms were more certain money-makers than mining resulted in the coast counties gaining in number of inhabitants also; Los Angeles county in 1880 had a population of over 11,000 and San Diego of over 4500. Since 1880 the famous gold-producing counties of the Sierra Nevada Mountains have, as a rule, shown a marked decline in residents, while the coast and valley counties of California have shown a wonderful gain in population.

YOUR HIDDEN POWERS

BY JAMES OFFENHEIM

In Stendhal's novel, "Red and Black," there are two women in love with the hero, Julien. Madame de Rênal loves Julien for his own sake. To her there is only one Julien, and she can never rid herself of her adoration. Her love is exalted and beautiful. To it she makes great sacrifices. Her nature is simple and devoid of malice.

Not so with the other woman. Mathilde is bored with life. There can be nothing exciting in loving the young nobleman who surrounds her. It's the expected thing, it's ordinary; there's not a thrill in it. But Julien's father was a peasant, a sort of servant in the hotel de la Mole. To love him would be scandalous and shocking. If it became known, she would be ruined forever.

Mathilde is known for her coldness and the sting of her tongue. She is a cold blonde, with a haughty beauty. But in her infatuation for Julien she becomes mad and delirious. She finally sings herself at his feet and cries in ecstasy: "You are my master. Punish my pride." She even cuts off a large lock of her hair for Julien and appears at breakfast before her parents boldly showing the cut, crying Julien across the table with a mad adoration, and once calling him "my master." In her passion she practically parades her secret before others.

But before the day is over a change has come. She hates Julien. She looks at him with contempt. She freezes. For at least eight days she shows that she thinks he is no better than a servant. He makes the mistake of pleading with her for her love. She feels he has killed the last vestige of it by this weakness. Then he decides to go away. As soon as she is in danger of losing him her madness returns. So it goes—hot, cold, love, hate, adoration and contempt.

TWO TYPES OF WOMEN
Madame de Rênal is an intuitive type, the type that loves. Mathilde is a sensational. The one finds joy in the clear and steady flame of love, and the more quiet it is the more she has joy in it. The other is looking for sensation, for excitement. Madame de Rênal would be content with an uneventful life, so she could live her love. Such a life would be a living death to Mathilde. To her life must have the extremes in it; be terrible, beautiful, phantastic, full of change. It must, in short, be theatrical.

It was said of Keats that he put red pepper in his mouth and then drank cool wine. He did it for the vivid and stinging sensation. That is the way the sensational type lives. A true sensationalist would prefer pain, tragedy, disgrace, the most terrible things, rather than have a humdrum existence.

Since most of our civilization is routine, the sensational does not fit in. This is why this type furnishes us so often with the criminal, the prostitute, the gambler and the dare-devil. They take drugs merely to give themselves a thrill.

What about it? There are many hazardous occupations, but that of defrauding the government doesn't appear to be one of them. Of course, there are things that money won't buy, but we somehow hold to the notion that you won't miss them much if you have the money.

It is a sad fact our educational system is not yet perfect. In far more many instances studies interfere with the proper development of athletics. This is the age of specialists. Which simply means that you have to pay ten men to do a little job instead of one.

Tipple is a foolish and a wasteful practice unless it should happen you intend to eat again at the same place. Some men die poor and leave sons who are thereby denied the privilege of becoming penniless loafers.

If you want our opinion, home is simply a good woman's smile surrounded by a house. A friend is one who knows how worthless you are and likes you just the same.

ENTER MADAME MOSQUITO
The mosquito—it is the female that bites—establishes a good line on summer life and says where people may stay and where they may not go. Such dictation proceeds from a ruler would prove a revolution. The mosquito gets by with it.

She was cleaned out of Panama. She had to be if the United States was to have a canal there. Success was had in the worst possible place, but American communities, although hopefully experimenting here and there, still have not found a remedy. Individuals find they can get relief by keeping goldfish in pools and by drainage, but an effective war on the summer tyrant will have to be conducted in wide areas under skilled management.

BERNONITES TAKE PORTLAND BALL CLUB INTO CAMP FOR SECOND TIME

ITALIAN DAVIS CUP MEN LOSE

(BY CHAS. AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
ROME, June 21.—The British Isles Davis cup team today won another match in singles from the Italian team, F. G. Lowe defeating Cesare Colombo, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0.

The remaining match of the series, Count Di Rabasco against Maj. Algersen, R. Kingscott, was not played as the Italian player suffered an injury to his foot.

Great Britain thus has won all the matches with the Italian players.

BO WILSON AFTER LAW SHEEPSKIN

Former Oxy Athlete Back from Sojourn in Honolulu; Booster for Sports

"Bo" Wilson, former star pole vaulter at Occidental and later at Princeton, arrived here yesterday morning from Honolulu, where he has been engaged in business for the past three years.

A barrister's career appeals to Wilson, and one of his first acts upon reaching the city was to rush out and enroll in the U. S. C. summer school. By dint of hard work he expects to complete the allotted three-year course in two years and hang out his shingle in Honolulu.

The former Occidentalite has not given up his athletic work and only recently won the pole vault at 11 feet 6 inches in an A. A. U. meet in Honolulu. He has been chairman of the A. A. U. branch there the past year and much of the success of athletics in the islands has been due to his efforts.

Wilson says the appearance of Charley Faddock in Honolulu was the occasion for record thrusters at the track meet. Between 4000 and 5000 persons watched the world's champion run.

Concerning the records which Faddock established in the islands Wilson says the Hawaiian A. A. U. committee did not press the claim for the records because the track was slightly irregular. The timing was O.K., according to Wilson, but the track was up and down in stretches, and had a drop of perhaps an inch in 100 yards.

A high school youth of 17 named Roemer finished three yards behind Faddock in the century, and Wilson prophesies that he will be heard from in the future.

Wilson said he had not heard of the international games to be held here next year, but declared his intention of persuading the Hawaiian A. A. U. committee to send a full team.

Gonzalez and Smar to Clash at L. A. High

Four more bouts will be staged at the Los Angeles High School this term, according to Coach Glenn Whittle, who is managing the embryo pugilists.

All four of the scraps bid fair to be of the highest kind as all of the boys who are to tackle are in the championship class. Smar and Gonzalez will tangle today and also a couple of heavier boys who are not expected to put up so good a fight.

Next Tuesday another pair of high-class fights is scheduled to make its appearance. Hoesland and Bresne, a couple of heavyweights, are to scrap out their troubles. Last week they had a run-in, but it ended in a draw after the fight had been extended for an extra canto. The other scrap will be between the winner of tomorrow's middleweight mix-up and Tommy Lawrence.

TITLE PLAY BEGINS TODAY

Jack Hutchinson, British Open Golf Champ, Defends His Crown; Opposition Formidable

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
NEW YORK, June 21.—Golfers throughout the country tomorrow will test their imaginations sweep across the Atlantic and be riveted on men stand on the threshold of winning the premier golf classic of the world.

"Long Jim" Barnes, American open champion; Walter Hagen, western open champion and title holder of the American Professional Golfers' Association; and Jock Hutchinson, the British-born American who won the classic last year, are the trio representing the United States in the British open. Each has an excellent chance to win the two days' play of thirty-six holes each that starts tomorrow. All three qualified without much difficulty. Hagen spectacularly tying Jock Kirkwood, the Australian star, with 147 for the lowest total for the two qualifying rounds. A round of 78 yesterday gave Hutchinson 159 and Barnes, going around in 72, had 154.

Barnes, Hagen and Hutchinson are the acknowledged "American big three," and Hutchinson, having won the open last year, would all but

Bat Savage is Defeated by Vic Alexander

BY ED O'MALLEY
In a bout full of ferocious action every moment of the journey Vic Alexander last night won over Bat Savage at the Madison Square Garden Boxing Club. Savage, rough and tough, resorted to boring tactics and volleys at close quarters, evidently hoping to wear his man down with short swings and kidney punches. He caught Vic with a right to the mouth in the third and drew the claret. Alexander dealt out the cleaner blows, many of which reached Savage's iron jaw, but he was unable to upset the Battler. On clean points scored, Alexander, according to Referee Tolles, had the advantage and was therefore awarded the decision.

In the semi-wind-up, Kid Merritt sprang a surprise party by knocking out Sallor Smith in the second round. The blow that led to Smith's downfall was a peach of a right to the chin, flooring the sailor heavily.

The results of the other bouts were as follows: Baby Gans beat Wild Kid Williams; Billy Kane von over Champ Tampico; Bat Pascoe and Kid Poyer drew, as did also Sammy Langford and Dummy Weller.

GRAVEN VICTOR AT CAMBRIDGE

(BY CHAS. AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
OXFORD (Eng.) June 21.—In the inter-varsity lawn tennis tournament today Axel B. Graven of California, a student at Oxford, beat M. A. Horn of Cambridge, 6-4, 6-0.

He also defeated R. St. Hadl, Cambridge, 6-2, 6-3. A. N. Wilder of California representing Oxford defeated J. H. Van Allen, of New York and Cambridge, 11-3, 2-6, 6-4. Wilder also beat Hadl, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4, but lost to Horn who beat him 6-4, 6-0.

At the close of the day's play Graven was leading Van Allen by one set.

FLINTRIDGE GOLF TEAM COPS TITLE

The battle for the club golf championship of Southern California came to an end yesterday when the Flintridge team of club swingers licked the waspish toters of the Victoria Club, Riverside. The score was four matches to one. The match, which was played over the Annapolis links, brought to a happy end the labor of George Cling, who acted as chairman of arrangements for the season.

The complete results follow:
Wright and McKay (Oxford) defeated Flintridge (Victoria) 3 and 2.
Shelley and Anderson (Victoria) 1 up, 20 holes.

MARTINEZ AND SALAS COLLIDE

Browning Unable to Meet Coast Bantam Champ

August Gatto and Garcia in Hot Match

Heavyweights Billed to Open L.A.A.C. Mitt Program

Due to a sudden case of illness in his family, Bob Browning, who was slated to hook up with Manuel Martinez in the feature bout of the L.A.A.C.'s boxing card tonight, was forced to leave for Kansas City yesterday, and Joe Salas has been selected to fill his place in the ring against the Pacific Coast bantam champ.

Salas is undoubtedly the toughest opponent that Martinez has ever been called upon to tackle, being of the slugging variety that so often proves disastrous to crafty boxers of his type. However, the Mercury boy is known to pack an awful wallop in addition to a lot of speed and cleverness, and his backers are expecting him to add to his list of victims tonight.

TOUGH GUYS

Although bantams, lightweight and flyweights make up the major portion of tonight's fight program, two ambitious heavies will face each other in the curtain raiser, Stan Elman and Murray Miller, both of whom are of the slugging persuasion, will have it out in the opener, and a knockout is generally expected.

In the feature preliminary Al Leonard and Sallor Smith will clash. Meador has a large following here because of his willing style of mixing and his uncanny ability to absorb punishment.

August Gatto and Henry Garcia have been matched for the semi-final. Ernie Clark will be the referee. H. M. Walker and Fane Norton will be the judges. The complete card:

Boxing: Jimmy Wilson, 125 pounds, beats Ray vs. Jack Fields, 145 pounds.
Pamphlet fight vs. Sam Langford, 115 pounds.
Al Gatto vs. Mike Martin, 115 pounds.
August Gatto vs. Henry Garcia, 125 pounds.
Joe Salas vs. Manuel Martinez, 125 pounds.

In addition there will be a series of races at distances from 50 to 225 yards. The back-stroke, breast-stroke, relay and tandem races are also scheduled.

"Thanks to the recommendation you got me, miss, there was no difficulty at all. Silva wanted a servant, and accepted the test, monials without any question."

"And you've discovered nothing?" she said in a disappointed tone.

"Not in Mr. Silva's room. The only thing I found was that he is going to Yorkshire tomorrow."

"And you have not been in the colonel's flat?"

The man shook his head.

"It is guarded inside and out, miss, now. He has not only his butler, who is a tough customer, to look after him, but he has found the man you employed, I understand."

"That's the fellow," said the girl, with a grim little smile. "Very good, Cobalt. You'll phone me if you make any other discoveries."

She was sitting at her solitary breakfast the next morning when the telephone bell rang. It was from a call office, and presently she heard Cobalt's voice.

"Just a word, miss. He leaves by the ten-twenty-five train for Huddersfield," said the voice; "and the person he is going to see is the money in it."

"How do you know?" she asked quickly.

"I heard him speaking to the colonel on the landing, and I heard the words: 'He'll pay.'"

She thought a moment.

"Ten-twenty-five," she repeated.

She hung up the receiver and at a moment in thought, then passed quickly to her bedroom and began to dress.

CHAPTER XIV

A PATRON OF CHARITY

Lady Sybil Croft was not a popular woman. She was conscious that she had married beneath her, more conscious lately that there had been no necessity to make the marriage, and she had grown a little scorned.

A thin, angular woman, with pale-green eyes and straight, tight lips, she had never been beautiful, but five or six years in an uncongenial environment had hardened and wanted her. It was at her husband's adored her and never spoke of her save in a tone of awe was common property and favorite subject for local humor. That she regarded him with contempt and irritation was as well known.

When Col. Dan Boundary surmised that this unfortunate victim of his blackmail would be worried, he was not far from the mark. Croft had spent many sleepless nights since he came back from London, nights full of terror, that left him a wreck to meet the fears of the days which followed. He lived all the time in the shadow of vengeance and exaggerated his danger to an incredible degree. Perhaps it was in anticipating what his wife would say that he experienced the most poignant misery.

It was therefore with something like pleasure that he heard his wife on the telephone speaking more cheerfully than he had heard her for months.

"Is that you, John?" She was almost civil. "I'm bringing somebody home to dinner. Will you tell Philippe?"

"That's right, love," said Mr. Croft eagerly.

He would be glad to see some new face, and that it was a new face he could guess by the interest in Lady Sybil's tone.

"It is a Mr. de Silva. Have you ever met him?"

"No, love; I've not. Is he a foreigner?"

"He's a Portuguese gentleman," said his wife's voice, "and he has been most helpful and most generous."

"Bring him along," said Croft heartily. "I'll be glad to meet him. How was the sale, love?"

"Very good, indeed," she replied, "splendid, in fact—thanks to Mr. de Silva."

John Croft was dressing when his wife returned, and it was not until half an hour later that he met Pinto Silva for the first time. Pinto was a man who dressed and looked well. John Croft thought he was the most impressive person he had met when he stalked into the drawing-room and took the proffered hand of the little millionaire.

"This is Mr. de Silva," said his wife, who had been waiting for her guest. "As I told you, John, Mr. de Silva has been awfully kind. I don't know what you're going to do with all those perfectly useless things you've brought," she added to the polished Portuguese, and Pinto shrugged his shoulders.

"Give them away," he said. "There must, for example, be a lot of poor women in the country who would be glad of the linen I have brought."

At this point dinner was announced and he took Lady Sybil in. The meal was approaching its end when she revived the question of the disposal of his purchases.

"Are you greatly interested in charities, Mr. de Silva?"

Pinto inclined his head.

"Both here and in Portugal I take a very deep interest in the welfare of the poor," he said solemnly.

"That's fine," said Mr. Croft, nodding approvingly. "I know what these poor people have to suffer. I've been among them."

His wife glanced him with a look.

"It frequently happens that cases are brought to my notice," Pinto went on. "I have one or two cases of women in my mind where these purchases of mine would be most welcome. For example, I heard the other day, quite by accident, of a poor woman in Wales, whose husband deserted her."

Mr. Croft had his fork halfway to his mouth, but put it down again.

"I don't know much about the case personally," said Pinto carelessly, "but the circumstances were brought to my notice by a friend. I think these people suffer more than we imagine, and I'll let you into a secret, Lady Sybil, he said, speaking impressively. He did not look at Croft but went on. "A few of my friends are thinking of buying a mill."

"A woolen mill?" she said, raising her eyebrows.

"A woolen mill," he repeated. "But why?" she asked.

"We wish to make garments and blankets for the benefit of the poor. We feel that, if we could run this sort of thing on a co-operative basis, we could manufacture the stuff cheaply, always providing, of course, that we could purchase a mill at a reasonable figure."

For the first time he looked at Croft, and the man's face was ghastly white.

"What a queer idea!" said Lady Sybil. "A woolen mill will cost you a lot of money."

"We don't think so," said Pinto; "in fact, we expect to purchase a very excellent mill at a reasonable sum. That was my object in coming to Yorkshire. I may tell you, and it was only by accident that I saw the advertisement of your bazaar and called in."

A fortunate accident for us," said Lady Sybil.

Croft's eyes were on his plate and he did not raise them.

"I think it is a great mistake to be too generous with the poor," said Lady Sybil, shaking her head; "these women are very seldom grateful."

"I realize that," said Pinto gravely, "but I am not seeking their gratitude. We find that many of these women are in terrible circumstances owing to no fault of their own. For example, this woman in Wales, whose husband is supposed to have deserted her—now there is a bad case."

Lady Sybil was interested.

"We found on investigation," said Pinto, speaking slowly and impressively, "that the man who deserted her, has since married, and occupies a very important position in a town in the north of England."

Mr. Croft dropped his knife with a crash, and with a mumbled apology, picked it up.

"But how terrible!" said Lady Sybil. "What a shocking thing! The man should be exposed! He is not fit to associate with human beings. Can't you do something to punish him?"

"That could be done," said Silva; "it could be done, but it would bring a great deal of unhappiness to his present wife, who is ignorant of her husband's treachery."

"Better she knew now than knew later," said the militant Lady Sybil. "I think you do very wrong to keep it from her."

Mr. Croft rose, and his wife looked at him with suspicion.

"Aren't you feeling well, John?" she asked with asperity.

It was not the first time she had seen her husband's hand shaking and had diagnosed the cause more justly than she was doing at present, for John Croft had scarcely taken a drink that evening.

"I'm going into the library if you'll excuse me, love," he said. "Maybe Mr. de Silva will join me. I'd like to talk over the question of that mill with him."

One of them had this to say yesterday. "We never thought that poor Ellen would ever recover, she had suffered so long from stomach and liver trouble and had lost more than 40 pounds in weight. She took a bottle of May's Wonderful Remedy upon the advice of her aunt and has steadily improved from the first dose. We are all confident of her complete recovery." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. The Human Terms of Tire Competition

ANY an American citizen has turned down a "job that looks like more money" in favor of a chance to do better work.

He gets called an idealist, perhaps. But when folks want to buy good merchandise and satisfactory service he's the kind of man they look for.

For practical example note the tire business.

Think back to the time when cord tires started to be talked about.

Cord construction had for its ideal a bigger service value for the car owner.

Whenever the cord principle was faithfully carried out it lived up to its original vision.

Now the makers of U. S. Royal Cords ask permission to put this on record:

Without high integrity of manufacture the cord tire might just as well not have been discovered at all.

Respect for the fine and rigid rules of cord tire building has made U. S.

Prices on United States Passenger Car Tires and Tubes, effective May 8th, are not subject to war-tax, the war-tax having been included.

JACKIE HAS NEW GUIDE

E. MASON HOPPER TO DIRECT MASTER COOGAN

By Grace Kingsley

Little Jackie Coogan is to have a new professional guide, philosopher and friend; in other words a new director.

And when it comes to picking good directors, Jackie Coogan may be said to be right there. Having completed "Oliver Twist" under direction of Frank Lloyd, and having had a little time in which to go fishing like any other youngster, Jackie, with the aid of his father, Coogan, Sr., went into the film market shopping for a new director, seeing that Mr. Lloyd is busy now with Norma Talmadge.

The result of the shopping expedition is that E. Mason Hopper has been engaged to pilot the youngster through his new production, work on which will commence at United Studios just as soon as the continuity is finished. Coogan, Sr., and Hopper are even now closely closeted on the script. The story is said to be an original yarn with an abundance of opportunities for the display of Jackie's many marvelous camera traits. A title has not yet been given the story, as it is the wish of Sol Lesser and Mr. Coogan to remain as close as possible to using working titles which afterwards are changed when the finished film greets the silver sheet.

Mr. Hopper needs little introduction to the film world. He was formerly connected with Goldwyn, and made some very successful pictures there, including "The Sign of the Cross" and "The Sign of the Cross". He is now connected with the young artistic idea to shoot, having directed some of the kid comedies which Goldwyn made.

With the completion of the new story, Jackie will probably take a trip abroad. This will mark the fifth production with Jackie.

Gaston Glass Signs

There is one person who is going to find out whether that Frederick O'Brien stuff about the South Islands is true or not, and that's Gaston Glass. That handsome young leading man has gone and hired himself out to the Goldwyn people to play a leading role in "The Sign of the Cross", which R. A. Walsh is to direct, and which is to be made in the tropics.

Theodore Roosevelt in It

That intrepid seeker after realism, Reginald Barker, has just added another leaf to his directorial laurels. As the introductory scene for "Timber", his first independent unit production for Louis H. Mayer, Reginald Barker has secured a splendid shot of the late Theodore Roosevelt delivering his famous speech on the preservation of the forests. Just how he has managed to use a subject he does not tell us, but he promises that it is woven into the dramatic theme in such a way that it becomes an important bit in the plot's development.

Jack Holt, Paramount Star

Jack Holt, Paramount star who comes to Grauman's Rialto next Monday in "While Satan Sleeps", is the next one in line for a little transcontinental commuting. After finishing his featured role in Irvin Willat's production, "On the High Seas", he will take a brief rest and then will leave for New York to make the opening scenes of "Making a Man", which is also adapted from a Peter B. Kyne story. Mr. Holt will then return to California with his director, Joseph Henabery, to complete that picture.

In His Last Lap

"The Kentucky Derby" is in its last lap. King Baggot has about completed the orbit of his all-star cast production.

The locations used sound like a travelogue. They have ranged from Hollywood to the Mexican border and even to Kentucky, where two weeks were spent in filming the annual Derby classic at Louisville and big stable scenes at Lexington.

Reginald Denny and Lillian Rich have the leading roles. Guest stars include: Lionel Belmore, Kingsley Benedict, Emmet King, Bert Woodruff, Bert Tracy and others as principals. The story is an adaptation of the old stage success, "The Suburban", in which Benedict played for over nine years. He now puts into film form.

Edna Wallace Hopper Talks

Edna Wallace Hopper, who is going to tell us all how to stay, or get, beautiful, next week, and who, herself, looks like a chicken, relates the perfectly wonderful time she had in Chicago, following the operation which smoothed out all the wrinkles:

"It's actually like being born again," she said. "The reflection of people's thoughts of you react on your own mind with the result that you feel as you look—youthful. You feel again all the impulses to do big things that you had when you were very young."

"In social life, of course, especially, you have a great time. My dear, I'll confess something. I've danced more in the few months since that facial operation than in years before. No, not because I can dance any better, but simply because I look better."

"There were a lot of flappers girls at the Blackhawk here in Chicago, and just for fun I told a flock of young men at a party given for the girls that I was one of them. I was all booked up for fun, and theater and supper the remainder of the week. Had a lot of fun, with pointers on the way to the point of view of the kids, in short, to laugh a bit at them as well as with them."

"I'm not divorced from my present husband, but I may be, and in that case I may marry again. Who knows? I'm young again."

"Who dares read the dapper? I'm for them. I think they're darlings."

Mantell's Abroad

The good old Shakespearean drama is taking root in the summer sun so far as Robert Mantell and his wife, Genevieve Hamper, are concerned. A card just received from Mr. and Mrs. Mantell informs that they are traveling in Europe, and that they are greatly enjoying themselves. Paris is coming in for a good share of their patronage.

"Fool There Was" Showed in Motion

Zukor Their Commendation

Support for the move of Adolph Zukor in announcing the establishment of the Paramount Stock Company School, was stated in telegrams directed to the president of the Famous Players-Lasky. In a wire sent Mr. Zukor's board of control it was intimated as a brilliant idea for the education of film players in all branches of their profession. The Players' board of control is composed of Theodore Roberts, Conrad Nagel, Lola Wilson and Sylvia Ashton. Individual members of the company, instructors of the various classes and executives of the studio, forwarded personal telegrams stating their commendation. Among them were Agnes Ayres, Lila Lee, Betty Compson, George Fawcett, Victor J. Clark, Clarence Burton, Wallace Reid, Paul Powers, Sam Wood, Walter Hiers and Al Green.

The faculty of the school includes William de Mille, Penryn Stanlaw, George Melford, Theodore Kosloff, Norman Selby, Paul Iribe, Max Parker, Alvin Wyckoff, George Fitzmaurice, Frank E. Woods, George Fawcett, Theodore Roberts and James Cruze.

VISITORS ARE FETTERED

Exhibitors of the First National organization were yesterday the guests of Louis B. Mayer, but recently returned from New York. In the morning the touring managers were conducted through the Mayer studio, where John M. Stahl is making "The Damocles Age." Mr. Mayer talked on the technical and directorial phases of production. Following the expedition through the lot, the prize-winning party was whisked away by auto to Riverside. After a luncheon given by Mr. Mayer at the famous Glenwood Mission Inn, they visited scenic spots in and around Riverside. The day's entertainment concluded with dinner at the home of B. F. Schulberg, president of Preferred Pictures, Inc.

This morning the visitors will inspect the leading downtown motion-picture theaters and then adjourn to a luncheon in their honor given by M. C. Leve, president of the United Studios. The afternoon will be taken up with successive tours of the United, Fairbanks and Keaton studios, and the Rothacker-Alber laboratory. Richard Walton fully will do the honors in the evening. He will entertain the visitors at "A Night in Paris," an open-air fete on the big lot where is playing Guy Bates Post in "Omar, the Tent Maker."

ATTRACTS AT DALTON'S

Kathryn Hammond, the new leading woman at Dalton's Broadway Theater, who was brought here by Dalton brothers from a train of Broadway successes, in Al H. Woods production, as well as a career in stock company work at Washington, D. C., seems to have made a place for herself in the hearts of Los Angeles theatergoers, judging by the heavy attendance this week at "Up in Mabel's Room," her opening vehicle. While it was originally intended to have a new show every week at the popular Broadway stock house, it seems likely that "Up in Mabel's Room," with its breezy display of midday's lingerie in all styles and shades, will have to be held over for a second week starting with next Sunday's matinee.

SIGNS RUSSIAN PIANIST

Carloline E. Smith of the Philharmonic Orchestra wires to the board of directors that she has been so fortunate as to sign contracts for the appearance here next season of Mirona Levitsky, Russian pianist, for a pair of symphony concerts with the orchestra. This announcement will be welcomed by the patrons of the orchestra, as Mirona Levitsky is one of the most popular artists who has ever visited the coast. Disappointment was keen when at his former engagement Levitsky was compelled to cancel his Saturday evening appearance because of an injury to his hand.

"ACCIDENTAL" EXPLOSION

A scene in Vitagraph's new feature "The Great Escape," at Tailor's Broadway Theater this week, which requires but a few seconds to show, was one of the most difficult in the whole picture to take. The incident shows Edith Johnson kicking a revolver and exploding it. It is not an easy task to discharge modern firearms in this manner. The weapon had to be hit in a certain way to press the trigger. Many rehearsals were required before William Dunham, co-star and director, finally made the scene successfully.

VENTILATING THE DANCE

A new $5000 ventilating system has just been installed in the Cinerella Roof, and this together with the general attractiveness of the great ballroom should make it a popular rendezvous during the warm months. "It is true," said William E. Kreier, proprietor, "that the roof, that beautiful surroundings and environment play an important part in the general impression which one receives upon entering a public ballroom, but of more importance—than anything else is plenty of fresh, clean air."

VISIT THE MISSION

John McCormick, western representative of First National, and the other exhibitors, whom he is entertaining during their local visit, will be guests of Harry David, managing director of the Mission Theater. This morning, when of their schedule permits, they are to witness a presentation of the world premier of the William Fox production of "A Fool There Was."

CHILDREN'S PLAY SUCCESS

The two one-act plays given by the Municipal Theater, Play Ground Department, on the 16th inst., were a marked success. So successful were they, in fact, that it was reported that they were repeated. It was found that two of them might easily be played on the same program with the children's production of "Hansel and Gretel" night at Normal Hill Center Auditorium. As both the "Maker of Dreams" and "The Philosopher of Butter Biscuits" carry much the same atmosphere as does the children's play, the two sections may show their work in the same evening to great advantage.
